THE MORRISTOWN GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 19, 1883.

In conformity to an agreement in caucus, a joint resolution was introduced in both houses of the Virginia General Assembly, last Thursday, declaring that the people of Virginia have accepted the act of February, 1882, known as the "Ridderberger bill," as the ultimate settlement of the debt of the State; that it is their unalterable purpose that that settlement shall be final, and any expectation that any other basis will ever be made or tolerated by the people of Virginia is absolutely illusory and hopeless. And this action of the legislature beyond a peradventure fastens Virginia in the list of Democratic States.

The Republican National Executive Committee met at Washington last week for the purpose of designating a place for the meeting of the next National Convention, to nominate candidates to be supported at the next election. Without much of a contest, Chicago was selected and Tuesday, June 3d, 1884, was designated as the day of meeting. The committee dodged the Mahone issue by adopting a stalwart advance plank of the next platform, throwing the mantle of the party over all organizations who believe in "free education, free suffrage, and the protection of life and property to all citizens." This is supposed to make the Readjusters good enough Republicans till after election.

We received last week, from Mr. S. S. Cann, of Augusta, Ga., a letter requesting information in regard to our county. We can only say that we think ours is the "garden spot" of the Union. Our lands are excellent. Our climate unsurpassed. We are blessed with an abundance of the purest water. Mineral resources abound. Grasses and cereals are produced in an abundance. Farming lands can be bought at from $10 to $100 per acre, according to quality, location and the state of improvement, and they are appreciating every day. Our people are progressive, and are glad to welcome the stranger. We say to Mr. Cann, and to all, come, and come now while the inflowing tide is so rapidly waiting us to prosperity.

The composition of the Committee of Ways and Means by Mr. Carlisle, and the work they cut out, will soon tell the story of "revenue reform." If ever there was a time when politicians should "make haste slowly" that time is now, and "revenue reformers" in Congress should ponder well their course before they commit the Democratic party inextricably to a policy that may prove suicidal, and postpone its return to power indefinitely. While we do not hesitate to declare that tariff reform is needed and that we have no more sympathy than others with a policy that tends to build up monopolies to the detriment of the masses, yet we can still perceive that this subject is enveloped with difficulties and must be dealt with in a conservative way. Sudden or violent reforms will not serve the purpose, but will overthrow the party committed to them, and defeat the very end that all should keep in view. Let the Democrats in Congress, we repeat, "make haste slowly" in dealing with this matter. In the language of the editorial correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle, "Revenue reform was a good enough slogan to defeat Randall, but it does not sound quite so well as an invitation to party suicide."

The Republicans reorganized the officers of the Senate last week by the election of Gen. Anson G. Cook, of New York, as secretary; Col. W. P. Canaday, of North Carolina, sergeant-at-arms; James R. Young, of Pennsylvania, executive clerk, and Charles H. Johnson, of Minnesota, chief clerk. The election of Gen. McCook over Geo. C. Gorham, was another defeat for Mahone, as Gorham had the misfortune to be considered Mahone's candidate. Mahone supported him in the caucus, and in a speech in his behalf, among other reasons assigned for his selection, he emphatically alleged that Gorham's defeat "would be misinterpreted throughout the South as in some sense a disapproval of the liberal movement." By

"liberal movement" Senator Mahone meant to designate the coalition between Republicans and Readjusters in Virginia. But the ex-boss, having been snubbed under in the late Virginia elections, found his influence less potent with his Republican colleagues than formerly. His friend and the friend of the "liberal movement" was defeated on the first formal ballot. The fact that Mahone as a professed Republican cannot hope to wield the influence in the Senate that he did as a Readjuster ally. "Time at last sets all things even."

One of our exchanges says that the selection of Chicago as the seat of the next Republican National Convention was a Blaine movement. Perhaps it was, as Mr. Arthur is said to have preferred Saratoga. But this was fully offset by the failure to change the basis of representation. The New York Tribune is Mr. Blaine's national organ. It says on this point:

"It is a matter for regret that the committee did not adopt the proposition of Mr. Fry for a change in the basis of representation. It met with the general approval of the Republicans of the North, and its adoption would have added strength to the 'Readjustment' of the South. The defeat of Gorham may be set down as highly pleasing to Mr. Blaine. So he scores two victories and one defeat."

WOOLEN FACTORY.
Last week a representative of the firm of Stevens Brothers visited Morristown with a view to the selection of a site for a large woollen factory. He had interviews, we learn, with several of our business men, and we trust will determine to locate here. We think no more suitable or desirable place than Morristown could be found in the State. Our railroad connections are good, and with the completion of the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago railroad, will be superior to any other point in the State. Besides, Morristown is the center of a very extensive grazing and farming country, and sheep husbandry is attracting more attention every year. We are assured that our business men will subscribe liberally to the enterprise. Let it be inaugurated and Stevens Brothers will grow rich, and the town will be benefited.

OUR RAILROAD PROSPECTS.
Meeting in the interest of the Savannah Valley Railroad was held at Anderson Court House last week. Only a small amount of the subscription necessary to insure the completion of the road, remains to be secured, which, it is stated, will be subscribed by the townships in Anderson county through which the road will run. There is hardly a doubt now but what the road will be built. Its advantages to Anderson, can hardly be estimated, as it gives her a competing line to Augusta, Savannah, Port Royal and Charleston, and makes her independent of the Clyde syndicate. The following resolution was adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That as citizens of Anderson county we hereby pledge ourselves, whenever the time arrives and the demands of trade and commerce and our interests require it, to aid in the extension of the Savannah Valley Railroad to Easley or Pickens Co. or any other line which will secure to our section greater facilities of travel and transportation, which always adds to the convenience and prosperity of a people.

The prospects of building the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad are much brighter at this time than they have ever been before. We think it only a question of time when the road will be built, and in our opinion the time will not be long. Of course the Savannah Valley will have a connection with the road at some point, and we think Pickens or Easley would be the most desirable place. Should our railroad enterprise fail, of which we have no fears, we will give our friends of Anderson material aid in extending their line to this place. We do not see why it should not be done. The further from Anderson Court House the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad is, the better it will be for both Anderson and the road. The road will have longer hauls and a greater extent of territory to draw from, while Anderson could develop a trade in the section which is now turned into other channels, and would remain there if their connection was made south of this place. We assure our friends of Anderson that Pickens extends them a cordial greeting, and will most heartily cooperate with them when they turn their attention in this direction.

Mr. Voorhees, of Indiana, offered the following in the Senate Monday, asking leave to have it printed: Resolved, That in the judgement of the Senate, the public debt is not a public blessing and that any measure of financial policy looking to the perpetuity of the present interest bearing national debt of this government for the purpose of national banking, or on any other account, meets with the disapprobation of this body, and should be viewed with alarm by the tax payers of the United States.

A MOST INVITING FIELD.
E. A. Burke, Esq., Director-General of the World's Industrial Cotton Centennial Exposition, has issued an address explanatory of the plans and prospects of the association, in which he says among other things: "The South-to-day is the most inviting field for enterprise in America. She presents to the world the same inducements that invited the pioneers of the Ohio Valley, the pioneers of the Pacific Slope in the golden days, and for a long time past the tide of immigration which has so rapidly peopled the Northwestern States and Territories, but with the additional attractions of a more genial climate, a more fertile soil, and more varied products. She has successfully overcome all disasters and reverses. Still increasing her immense agricultural interests, she has developed manufacturing enterprise, adding to her material and natural resources the wealth creating power of corporate industry, the result of continued and increasing prosperity."

GOLD DISCOVERED AT LAS VEGAS.
LAS VEGAS, N. M., December 11.—This morning, while digging for the foundation for the new Court House, the laborers, who were old miners discovered signs of "pay dirt." They immediately gave it a trial, which resulted in showing that they had struck a rich deposit. Great excitement prevails in the town, and every body is staking off claims.

Tice, the weather prophet, is dead. He has gone where the seasons are never uncertain, being either perpetual summer or eternal spring.

Wm. Ramsey, head book-keeper of Wells, Stone & Co., at Saginaw City, shot his brother Monday night mistaking him for a burglar. His brother died in thirty minutes.

The Georgia colored convention at Atlanta adopted resolutions asking for colored representation on the boards of education. An organization was effected with the view of casting the colored vote for men who will pledge themselves to increase the school fund.

A young man named Blair, clerk in a store at Casey, Tenn., on the 13th, returned to the store after it had been closed. The proprietor saw a light in the store, and thinking there were robbers got friends, all armed, who, when Blair came out, riddled him with bullets.

A man became frightened on the 13th, while in a colliery hoist in Pennsylvania and jumped out of the cage, fell a distance of 350 feet. Incredible as it may seem, however, he was not fatally injured, the shaft not being perpendicular so that he had the benefit of a little friction in his descent.

One of the largest sales of cattle on record was made at Denver, Col., on the 13th. H. D. and J. W. Snyder & Co., of that city, bought of Snyder Brothers, of Georgetown, Texas over 29,000 head of cattle and 40,000 sheep for $800,000. The former firm now own nearly 54,000 head of cattle and 10,000 horses.

In the United States Supreme Court a decision has been rendered in the contested will case of Stephen Percy Ellis, et al., the collateral heirs of Sarah Ann Dorsey, against Jefferson Davis to receive possession of certain and personal property left to the latter by Mrs. Dorsey at her death. The judgment of the court below in favor of Mr. Davis is affirmed.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM A FORMER CITIZEN.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 7, 1883.
To the Editor of The Morristown Gazette: Sometimes, in the course of our wanderings up and down the earth, we are, by some chance circumstance, brought face to face with the old times and memories of the years long since passed come up thick and fresh as if they were but of yesterday.

Today I picked up an old newspaper and carefully glanced at its columns, and in a moment I was strangely interested; and a glance at the head showed me that it was the Morristown paper. Then I began a search for names that were familiar fifteen years ago, and soon found that time had changed the firm names and that many strange to me are now in the place of the old ones of a decade and a half ago. And as I looked on over the pages, I found the name of a young lady, and as I remembered her only as a little girl of eight years, I thought there must be some mistake—but no—fifteen years is a long time and boys and girls grow up to man and womanhood. Time plays us some cruel tricks, and as the years roll on one by one, we must acknowledge that we are growing old, and those little boys and girls must take our places as the young life of society, though, some of us hold on to youth longer than others, yet we must at least give way to the light-bounding hilarity of young and happy boyhood; our limbs are too stiff or we are too tired, while all the time it is the passing years that is hurrying us on to the duties and perplexities of man and womanhood and thence on to old age.

Fifteen years ago I came to Morristown from the back country and apprenticed myself to Ben. Mitchell to learn the carpenter's trade; and I suppose there never appeared a greener or more awkward boy on the streets of Morristown. During the two years of my apprenticeship I became pretty well acquainted with the people of the town and also with the tricks of the boys. At first I was regularly imposed upon—as the "cub" always is—and in my naivety I imagined it was part of the "trade," and green as I was, that supposition was about as near correct as any of my life. However, after a while I began to make friends, and then I soon came in as one of the regular graduates.

Fifteen years ago Hamblin county was formed and the question of a county seat was uppermost in every mind; and the first county election was an event of great interest, and men of all parties and all degrees of capability were seeking to serve the people, and the one who furnished the most food for fun, was humorous, good-natured Capt. Legwith, then a candidate for county clerk. Many times, when the Captain was hard pressed by the friends of his opponent, he resorted to the happy humor of his generous nature. Once, during his canvass for clerk, some of the opposition had found him in Joe Brown's store, and when closely pressed he said in his happiest way: "Boys, there is no use of mincing matters, I want the office simply because I need the salary."

G. H. Boyd was elected first sheriff of Hamblin county, and Sam Furrow was one of his deputies. Sam's first important arrest was the negro who shot and killed Wash. Fulton, near the railroad track, just west of the depot. And the trial of this negro was the first murder case ever heard in Hamblin county. The first regular district court was held in an old frame store-room on Main street. John Mitchell and myself fit the room up by taking down a partition and making a number of rude board benches.

George Speck was publishing THE GAZETTE then, and the results of a little serenade in which he took a leading part are no doubt remembered by many who were fun-lovers in those days. However, some of the boys found the joke rather an expensive one.

The firm of Morris, Kidwell & Co. was the great institution of the town in those days, and no doubt many still remember how the firm was sometimes styled—"Morris, Kidwell, Colvin & I." And this reminds me, that the Colvin mentioned here, is now a prosperous farmer of Atchison county of this State. Sometimes in my pilgrimages I call at the cozy little farm-house on the Tarkie and Colvin and I have a quiet reunion; the other parties to the meeting are, of course, brought in to fancy—Glen Kidwell, John Morris, Bob Mitchell, Will Dickinson, Bill Flynn and a half dozen others were the fun-loving and prank-playing boys of the town, and I could tell some incidents that would live up to the memory of many a one who suffered at that time.
